DONNA NESSELBUSH is a co-founder of Marasco & Nesselbush, a firm dedicated to helping the injured and disabled. Throughout her career, Donna has been recognized for several professional achievements. In her role as the Executive Director of the Rhode Island Coalition Against Domestic Violence, she spearheaded several avant-garde initiatives in the courthouse as well as the State House. She is a member of the American and Rhode Island Associations for Justice, the first 'Person of the Year' to be included into the Pawtucket, Rhode Island Hall of Fame, and received the Ada Sawyer Award from the Rhode Island Women's Bar Association for her work as a Rhode Island Senator to pass Rhode Island's Marriage Equality Law. In May of this year, Donna was nationally recognized with the Eileen P. Sweeny Distinguished Service Award and was a Rhode Island State Senator from 2010-2020.

JANE DUKET, an associate attorney with Marasco & Nesselbush, has dedicated her legal career to representing medical negligence victims and personal injury clients. Prior to joining Marasco & Nesselbush, Jane worked as a child advocate in the Boston area. She was recognized as a Super Lawyers Rising Star in 2020 and 2021. Jane is admitted to practice law in the United States District Court, District of Rhode Island, and District of Massachusetts. She is a member of the Rhode Island Bar Association, the Rhode Island Association for Justice, and the Rhode Island Women's Bar Association. During her time at Marasco & Nesselbush, Jane has advocated for her client's needs, so they receive the best possible resolution, as seen in her most recent $7.27 million jury verdict for a client whose lifelong disabilities were caused by medical negligence.

NICKLYN DOLPHIN is the managing associate attorney of the disability practice area at Marasco & Nesselbush. Nicki strives to help her clients and their families during difficult and vulnerable times, allowing them to focus on improving their health while she focuses on their legal matters. Her previous work experience with an indigent population resulted in experiences that made her cognizant of the difficulties facing individuals with limited means and the impact it can have on all aspects of an individual's life. Her experience as the executive assistant for the chief of medicine and chief of nursing at Harvard University gave her a keen appreciation for the complications of our healthcare system and provided her with a crash course in medical jargon. Nicklyn graduated with honors from Franklin & Marshall College in 2004 and New England School of Law in 2011, where she finished in the top ten percent of her class and was an editor at the New England Law Review. She is admitted to practice law in Massachusetts.

LAUREN BIZIER, an up-and-coming attorney, is an associate at Marasco & Nesselbush. She advocates for those who are injured and disabled, understanding how complex certain processes can be without legal representation. Lauren graduated cum laude from Roger Williams University with a double major in Legal Studies and Psychology, then cum laude from Roger Williams University School of Law. During law school, Lauren served as a Notes and Comments Editor for the Roger Williams University Law Review. Lauren's comment discussing pending Title IX regulations was selected for publication in Volume 25 of the Roger Williams University Law Review. Additionally, she provided pro bono legal services by interning with Operation Stand Down Rhode Island, where she learned about Veteran's Disability Law. She also participated in a pro bono program with Southcoast Fair Housing, where she worked on a project to increase awareness of fair housing rights. Lauren initially joined Marasco & Nesselbush as an intern and was inspired by the firm's client-centered approach.
